The temperature was in the forties at times and a heavy coat felt very comfortable.

HOME AGAIN

After driving 485 miles from McAlester, Oklahoma, Monday, the writer, Mrs. Davis and Miss Octavia Davis, arrived home about 11:30 P. M. from our ten days journey. The speedometer registered a 2018-mile trip. Three objectives had been achieved: a week-end visit with our son, F. M. Davis, and family, at Paris, Texas; a four days' visit to relatives and boyhood friends of the long ago in our former stamping grounds of southwest Tennessee and northwest Mississippi; and last, a two-days sight seeing drive from Memphis, Tennessee, in a northwesterly direction through Arkansas to the southern boundary line of Missouri, across Crowley's Ridge at Jonesboro and through the heart of the Ozark Mountains, by way of Eureka Springs, and on to Muskogee, Oklahoma, by way of Rogers and Fayetteville, Arkansas. Those two days through the hills and mountains of northern Arkansas afforded a new experience, as none of the members of the party had ever experienced the thrill of mountain driving before. The apple orchards in full fruit was also a new sight to part of the party. Though we were caught in a downpour of rain in Mississippi and had part of Thursday's visiting curtailed thereby, most of the country traversed was extremely dry and crops for the most part poor, or below normal.

A visit to the scenes of ones boyhood days which we left some 46 years ago, while affording many pleasures, is not unmixed with some sadness. Our only living aunt, last of the generation to which our parents belonged, will soon be 90 years of age. Our only living sister, nearing her 79th year, is in a low state of health. Our only living brother is still active for a man of his years, now nearing his 82nd birthday. These facts more than our own age make us conscious of the rapid flight of time. The old homestead where we were born, was growing a crop of cotton, the house having long since been demolished, and the old pear

COTTON COMING IN

The cotton harvest season opened on August 11th, when the first bale was ginned, and the staple has been coming in at a lively rate since. To Mateo Salavar, a tenant on the Mrs. Tennie Odum, Bell's farms (the Odum Estate lands), belongs the distinction of bringing in the first bale of the season. It was ginned by the Holloway gin on August 11th, weighed 550 pounds and was sold for 15c per pound. This bale was nine days later than that of 1940, which came in August 2nd.

Up to Wednesday noon 33 bales had been ginned and it is estimated that about 300 bales will be ginned this season.

tree, one of the cherished landmarks about which happy childhood memories cling, is at the point of death.

Still there is an urge to journey back, as if to some sacred shrine, which we would not suppress if we could, and the gracious welcome given by the younger generation of nieces, nephews and cousins is sufficient to compensate for much of the loss we feel in the rapidly thinning ranks of our own generation.

We are glad we went.
We are glad we are Home again!

NATURALIZATION RECORD INDEX COMPLETED IN COUNTY

Hondo, Texas, August 18, 1941.—Completion of the WPA naturalization record index in Medina County, including the names of 869 naturalized citizens, was announced today by J. A. Hazelrigg, WPA district manager.

Completion of the project, which was certified by the War Department as important to the National Defense Program, makes information available on all persons naturalized in the county previous to September, 1906. Mr. Hazelrigg stated. Later naturalization records required no servicing, he said, standard procedure having been followed in filing papers since the year 1906. Earlier information had been difficult and sometimes impossible to obtain prior to the completion of the WPA project, he stated.

The naturalization project was sponsored jointly by the Advisory Committee to the Council of National Defense and by the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice. A statewide index of naturalization records will be prepared, arranged alphabetically by counties, and will be made available to the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Carbon copies of index sheets will be available in the offices of county clerks for each county and for future reference and use by investigators and the general public, WPA officials stated.

The project provided approximately 3 months employment for 3 clerical workers in Medina County and six months employment for 400 workers in Texas.

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION TO MEET

The Medina County Board of Education will meet August 26th, 2 P. M., to approve all bus drivers' contracts and bonds. As this is the last possible date before school opens, Sept. 1, it is highly desirable that all drivers have their bonds and contracts complete and ready to present for approval.

All buses are required to have an inspection report, signed by patrol officer, attached to their contracts before the board is authorized to approve. This inspection will be made at Hondo, August 26th, during the morning hours. All bus drivers are requested to have their buses for inspection. This arrangement for bus inspection is made for the entire county at the stated place and time as the patrol officer does not have time to make inspection at any other places.

C. F. SCHWEERS,
Co. Supt.

Pay your taxes and save money.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Before the old Roman Empire blew up back yonder around 2000 years ago, things were something like they are now, here. Taxes were sky-high—divorce was easy as shootin' fish—pleasure came first—spending for swords and chariots soared—religion was half-hearted.

I been gassin' about it with Henry—he is my neighbor. He says, "Jo, instead of standing around with your mouth open taking in all the new theories coming in over the radio or reading 2-column columns by hysterical reporters, you better sharpen a couple pencils and start writing your U. S. A. senators and U. S. A. congressmen. Tell 'em where to start pruning expenses. Tell 'em to sweep out the Gov. psychologists and economic experimenters. Tell 'em to send home their son-in-law and all their other relatives. Anyway, send home all who are getting 2 thousand or upwards, per year. That would just about empty half the buildings. Tell 'em to sell the surplus furniture, including the 500 thousand swivel chairs. That might help start the ball rolling," he says.

Henry is not so handsome, but brother, he sure is no green pea.

Yours with the low down,
JOE SERRA.

MORE THAN REALIZED

Leaving Hondo on Saturday morning of August 9th, after casting an absentee vote for the bond issue, we didn't learn of the result of the election of August 12th until reaching home on the night of the 18th, this week.

To say that our fear that it would be defeated was more than realized is to put it mildly.

We supported the proposal because of the importance we attach to the construction of Highway 173; we feared an adverse result because of the delay—if not worse effect—it will impose on that project.

We felt that tying it up with several other proposed projects—however meritorious any may be—was bad strategy.

Had each project been presented separately and been voted on upon its own merits this result for some might have been different.

For instance, the purchase of right-of-way for 173 would have imposed a very small fraction of the aggregate of the proposals as submitted; the size of the proposed debt would have been less awe-inspiring.

We felt that by submitting the Highway 90 widening project before the lines are established and we know definitely whether it is going to make or mar the future of our town was jumping the gun on that proposal.

Desirable as are improved lateral roads and paved streets, we felt this could be more safely postponed, at least until the permanency of our Highways are so established as to make sure of the permanency of present locations of laterals and streets and until labor and material costs have resumed a normal status, rather than jeopardize the credit of the precinct by so large an indebtedness.

In other words, the last penny needed for the proper location and construction of the two Highways should be made secure before any other obligations are incurred.

Some such conclusions must have exerted a stronger feeling in others than it did in us to cause its overwhelming defeat.

Whatever these aversions may be, we hope no one will conclude that this is the finale to the 173 project.

We should forget all differences, drop all consideration of things that divide us and concentrate on the achievement of 173 until it becomes a finished link between 83 at Leakey and State No. 9 below Jourdanton.

This done, and Hondo's future will be assured; achievement of the other projects will follow easily in due course.

Highway No. 173 lost to Hondo, and there may no streets remain for long to pave, and our laterals may lead to some other town.

Let's put things of first importance first in our efforts at achievement.

Let's build 173!

FORMER POSTMASTER BURIED

Funeral services were held at the Horgan Funeral home at three o'clock Thursday afternoon for the late Joe L. Fohn, and interment made in the family plot in the Woodmen section of Oakwood cemetery. Rev. C. Garcia, Pastor of the Saint John's Catholic church of Hondo, conducted a brief service after the rites of the Catholic church. There was a large attendance of sorrowing relatives and friends and a profusion of beautiful flowers covered the last resting place of the departed.

The following served as active pall-bearers: Frank Fohn, Wilfred Fohn, Jack Fohn, Epie Finger, Amos Finger, and Alphonse Boog, all nephews of the deceased.

Joe L. Fohn was a native of D'Hanis, the son of the late John and Katrina Fohn, pioneer settlers of that community. He grew to manhood there, and came to Hondo in the middle 1890's where he served for some time as clerk in the Assessor's office. Later he was appointed postmaster of Hondo and served in that capacity under Presidents McKinley, Theo. Roosevelt and Taft, being succeeded by the late M. A. Chancey under the Woodrow Wilson administration.

During his residence here he was married to Mrs. Jennie Marsh McLeuen, who survives to mourn his departure. To their union were born two children, Mrs. Mason Sutherland of New York City and Leonard Fohn of Galveston. One grandchild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland and three brothers and five sisters also survive. The brothers and sisters all reside in Medina County, and there are a number of nieces and nephews.

Soon after retiring from the Postmastership of Hondo, Mr. Fohn and family moved to San Antonio. After a few years spent in that city they moved to Houston and later to Galveston. He had been in poor health for a number of years but clung to life with a tenacity that was remarkable for one so afflicted. After years of suffering, he entered eternal rest at his home in Galveston on Monday night, August 18, 1941, at the age of 74 years.

He was a well read and widely traveled man and had a wide circle of friends as well as numerous relatives who respected him highly for his sterling qualities. This paper joins them in sympathy for his bereaved family in their loss of a beloved husband and father.

INDEXING PROJECT STARTED HERE MONDAY

The work of indexing deeds of trust and mortgage records in Medina County, under WPA project No. 14387, got under way Monday, August 18, at the county courthouse. The project provides employment for three clerical workers, namely Mrs. Nora Finger, R. C. Bless and E. T. Wiemers. The records are being indexed on a card system which will be of benefit to those who otherwise would have to look through the big record books.

"Played like a pair of fish!" McDonald suddenly straightened. "Skeene, for two cents I'd cross the ice and get that fur. It's ours—they stole it!" Skeene looked hard into the blue eyes of his chief. "First, we'd have a handsome row to get it, that man with the scar, and his half-breed will fight; second, the police would be up here before we were out of the ice. Foolish talk!"

Skeene looked suggestively at his chief, as he added: "We have—and you have."

The other shifted his gaze as he muttered, "Yes—that's only too true." "But Mokoman! What'd you say happened to him?" Skeene asked Michel. "He was killed by de dog—been front fore."

"Killed by his own dogs—queer! Might have been wolves."

"No, de dog follow show tracks back to de trail. No wolf do dat."

"Well, so much for Mokoman! Small loss—never liked him."

"Does he know how much fur they had—these hunters who crossed?" asked the mate.

"Dey have mooch fur—bout one hunder skin."

"Half of it silver and black, probably. A small fortune! H—I!" In his chagrin Skeene crashed his hand flat on the table.

"You're a judge of men, John. That fellow sure liked us," McDonald admitted ruefully. "Now we've got no time to lose with the southern hunters."—Michel!

The Cree leaned to hear the whispered order of the free-trader. "You keep this Indian on the boat—fill him up and lock him in, forward. If he got loose among the southern camps with this devil talk, they'd follow the others. Brought ought to know, but the Lord knows where he is."

Shortly two dog teams left the ship bound for the camps in the south half of the island in a mad rush to save the skins yet untraded.

The Christmas mail from Albany was approaching on the river trail below Elkwan. From the upper Elkwan and the Shamattawa, from the Wink and the Rattaw, for days the hunters and drifted in to the post, dog harness with colored worsted and jingling with bells. There old Soule, elated by his stratagem and proud of the praise which Garth had given unstintingly in the privacy of his tent, had led the Kiniski hunters with their valuable harnesses. In the trade-room Garth and Etienne were busy preparing for the trade which had not yet begun.

It was a happy pair that were opening bundles of blankets, getting out hats and furs, tea and tobacco, from the store-room—filling the shelves with the trade-goods of the company.

"Ah-hah! What goin' on out dere?" Etienne looked from a window. "De all ees comin'!" he cried, and slipping on his parka, went out followed by Garth.

The Albany mail! Garth Guthrie's thoughts were a medley of surmises, questions, hopes. Letters from home! There would be little from his family—Ethel, that would bring cheer to an exile's Christmas. But the letter which a girl on the moonlit shore of the Albany had promised to send him—had she remembered? As he passed the tips on his way to the chattering people on the shore, his heart was quick with expectation—hope. After the disapproval—reproach, of home letters, the letter from Joan Quarrier would come like the sun breaking through the cloud canopy of the bay. But if she had forgotten? As he joined Etienne and Marie, the possibility of there being no letter on the sled behind the four Ungava huskies galloping in to Elkwan to the shouts of the Cree, made him set his finger nails in the palm of his hands.

"De Mail Ees Comin'!" He Cried.

Up at his quarters, the little Christmas spruce waited on a table—for her letter—his Christmas. Should it wait in vain?

In the trade-room Garth opened the mail bag with nervous fingers. Clara's familiar hand, company mail from Cameron, two from Ethel, pale blue—He heard the hammering of his heart as he fumbled for, and drew out, the last envelope in the bag. One from an old army friend, another from his colonel, a third! Slowly he slid the folded paper from the one beneath—the last, as he doubtfully shook his head, numb with disappointment.

He looked! A strange hand—a woman's! Hers! She had kept her word to the exile.

In his joy Garth sought the privacy of the rear of the counter to read Joan Quarrier's letter. Then he remembered. He had said it was to hang from the tree, to be read last, on Christmas day. Tucking it into the skirt beneath his coat, he put the others in a pocket and joined Etienne and the hungry dog-runner, who waited for Marie's dinner.

After all, it was to be a happy Christmas. A trade beyond his hopes! Humph over the schooner which lay thirty miles away over the ice—and word from the girl who faced so dauntlessly with those unwavering dark eyes. A Merry Christmas for Garth Guthrie, come what might from Charlie and Clara—and Ethel. From Ethel, what?

On Christmas eve he stood in his living room with old Anne, before the little spruce, brave with worsted and colored paper and bits of lighted candle. On the tree hung colored bags and at its foot were small parcels tied with gaudy Christmas ribbon. On the topmost twig was a letter.

"You told them, Anne?" he asked the grinning squaw, proud in her best wool dress, her raven hair coquettishly circled by a huge pink ribbon—a gift of Garth's, cherished for ceremonies like the present.

"Ah-hah," chuckled the faithful Cree. "Dey come soon, now. Marie, she rub dem chil's face till dey shine lak de moon."

Garth paced the floor, his lean, dark face beaming in anticipation. Then laughter, giggles, shouts of children, followed by stern reproof in a man's voice, announced the arrival of the guests, the eight Savannes.

Garth and Shot simultaneously sprang to the door to welcome the comely Marie, leading her excited brood of six, with the grinning Etienne as rear guard.

"Merry Christmas, Marie! Jean! Yvonne!" he cried, fairly dragging the giggling and embarrassed children into the house. "Ah, Monsieur Etienne Savanne, friend of McDonald Hal Hat, is also with us tonight."

With his audience seated, Garth proceeded to divide the gifts he had ordered the previous year from lower Canada. For each of the children was a bag of candy, which was opened with wide-eyed curiosity and grins of delight. And, as the sweet tooth of grown-ups is also highly developed in the North, Marie and Anne, who had not been forgotten, swiftly evidenced their appreciation of good candy by joining the children in their munching.

Then the toys in packages marked with the children's names were given out. There remained a dress each for Marie and Anne, and a Ross sporting rifle for the delighted Etienne.

In the heart of the Santa Claus of Elkwan, the pleasure lighting the dark faces of his friends at his unexpected gifts reacted manifold. Besides, at the top of the tree, his own Christmas waited his eager eyes.

When with much bustle and chatter his friends returned to their cabin and old Anne left him, Garth sat down to read the letters from home. The first opened was his brother's, which ran as follows:

"If I had been told that my own brother was to disgrace himself as you have seen fit to do up there on James bay, I should have knocked down the liar who said it. We understand now your strange refusal to return home, your indifference to Ethel and the business. Professor Quarrier has given me the whole shameful story. A white woman would have been bad enough—but a squaw! Pah!"

Guthrie's lean face set hard as he read the first lines. Slowly the blood pushed up under the wind-burned skin.

"A white woman would have been bad enough—but a squaw!" Reading no further, he crushed the letter in his hand and let it fall.

"Poor Ninda!"

The letter from Clara was a medley of hysteria, reproach, and unmistakable evidence of a sincere affection for her erring brother-in-law. His eyes softened as he followed the misguided woman's effort to appeal to his sentiment—to his old love for Ethel.

"Of course she knows, Garth. That Quarrier man spread it all over town. But I am sure, in spite of it all, she still loves you—would forgive, if you asked her. Oh, Garth! You're the only brother I have, and I've always doted on you. Won't you, for my sake, come back this spring—for your own, for Ethel's sake. I don't know what she's writing you, but you mustn't take it seriously. She's terribly hurt, of course—but I know she'll forget it all, if you come back."

"Poor old Clara," said the man aloud. "Poor, simple Clara! She can't see yet that it's brother Charlie who counts with Ethel, not I."

So Quarrier had had his revenge, Quarrier, her brother. It was not strange after the snubbing he got. But she? What did Joan Quarrier think of the tale her brother had brought to Charles Guthrie?

Then he opened the two letters in the blue envelopes. One was dated a month earlier than the other and he read that first.

"I imagine your life in France," ran the letter, "was similar to that of the last year on James bay. I have learned much of what went on over there. Was it a French girl or an army nurse?"

She had unwittingly hurt him in the only way it was now possible for Ethel Falconer to reach the man who had once loved her. Army nurse! What had Ethel done for Canada to qualify her as a critic of the women who had toiled and dared behind the lines, that stricken men might live?

He read on: "Of course, Garth, this is your answer. I was willing to forget the slight, the neglect, but when we learned how you had been living, my love died. To share your affections with an ignorant, immoral squaw was asking a little too much, Garth."

The man who read laughed outright. "Your love died, my poor child, on the wharf at Quebec, when you saw what the Huns had done to your soldier boy," he said aloud.

"Well, why the postscript?" he went on. "She throws me over in the first letter, horse, foot and dragoon; why continue the agony?"

Opening the second envelope, he read: "When I wrote you, Garth, dear, I did not understand that she had died, but Mr. Quarrier tells me that his sister helped nurse her. Of course, it was all a horrible shock, but now that it is over and you may come home, I am willing to forget the past—if you want me to."

Rising in disgust, Guthrie paced the floor. "Merciful heavens! She's willing to forget the past! Poor, shallow, scheming Ethel! Rather than lose brother-in-law Charles, you cray-fish, eat humble-pie, grovel on your knees. 'Was it a French girl or a nurse?' he quoted scathingly. 'Ready to swallow that, too, are you, my dear?'"

Guthrie finished the letter. So Ethel Falconer waited with open arms for the prodigal lover. But, unlike the son of the tale, the prodigal lover was not returning.

Picking up and finishing the crumpled letter of Charles, Garth learned that, inasmuch as he had disgraced the family name and ignored the family wishes, the Guthrie family would proceed to try to forget its black sheep.

With a smile of contempt Garth opened the door of the sheet-iron stove and tossed in the letters. Clara's he would answer—good-hearted, well-meaning, old—Garth, who alone had sensed his condition and his unhappiness, on his return home. Then raising his arms and expelling a deep breath of relief, he said: "Thank God, that's over! And now—"

He took the letter of Joan Quarrier from the tree and eagerly opened it.

"Dear Mr. Exile:

"Have you kept your promise? Is this the last letter to be read? I wish you a very happy Christmas, but just how that would be possible up there on your frozen west coast is difficult to imagine. However, I hope you will not be lonely with thoughts of home and what you have so stubbornly turned from."

Garth's brows knotted in thought. "Of course," he surmised, "she must know about Ethel since her brother had met Charles—had heard of the engagement and his strange actions. But if she thought him still engaged, why did she write?"

Joan continued: "My winter has been an active one, working in a school for homeless children. Poor things! They need all one can give them. It has not been as uninteresting as it sounds. Every thing is no new and strange.

"But you, when are you coming back to your kind, Mr. Exile? You must be wonderfully well after two years—and they are still waiting for you."

"Again my deepest gratitude for your hospitality to the shipwrecked!" Garth finished the letter with a groan of disappointment. "She's heard a fine tale from the family, and her brother's version wouldn't help it any," he muttered. "Doesn't speak of meeting them, though. She, in a school for homeless children—"

It was evident to Guthrie from the reserved tone of Joan Quarrier's letter that she had heard of his engagement to Ethel, and it was also quite as clear that she was ignorant of the color of the story Quarrier had related to Charles. To this, he realized, Joan Quarrier would give instant and flat denial but she was not even in Montreal—would never meet the Guthries. And after all, what did it matter? He was through with them—his smug brother, and the girl who had lost him when she stared in horror at his scarred cheek that day when the Royal Mounties came home.

He replaced the letter in the pocket of his shirt to be reread again and again with increasing disappointment—chagrin. He had hoped for something more personal—something of the Joan Quarrier he had known for five short days in September. But it was evident that she thought the factor of Elkwan not a free man. Well, he was now. Quarrier had done him an unintentional kindness in that line—had forced Ethel's hand. Now he, Garth, could accept her release. Then what?

Far into the night Guthrie sat and smoked, but when he blew out the candle, he was no nearer a solution of his problem. Joan Quarrier had been right when she feared that a lonely Christmas awaited the exile at Elkwan. It did—a Christmas gray because a thousand miles of forest separated Garth Guthrie from a girl whose hair the moon once touched with silver dust on the cliffs of the Albany.

The Kingsville Record. RECORD AD MAN ON VACATION

Record advertisers will be glad to know W. E. (Shorty) Newton, efficient advertising manager of the Record, will be back on the job tomorrow after a brief and well-earned vacation. For one brief week the editor has substituted for the little bundle of energy who hustles in the ads, and the sky-piece of said editor is suspended two feet above his head in admiration for a guy that can "take it" week in and week out. Also the warm concrete sidewalks of Kingsville's downtown area seemed pretty close to the editor's hip pockets by the time the day was done.

But Bill Newton will take over on the job next week after a rest on the beach over Corpus Christi with Mrs. Newton and sons, Billie and Jimmie.

BREWER ADAMS' NOTED CAREER

Samuel Adams, famous Colonial brewer, not only signed the Declaration of Independence, but he also was president of the State Senate, member of the Governor's Council, Lieutenant-Governor and Governor in Massachusetts. His brewery, in which he assisted and later succeeded his father, adjoined the family residence on Purchase Street, Boston. A historian, William Vincent Wells, says: "Samuel Adams succeeded to his father's business of a brewer, which he conducted in person. It enabled him to maintain a respectable rank in society."

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Many Washington observers have interpreted the hearings by the special Senate committee investigating the old-age pension situation as a prelude to strongly backed proposed legislation along the lines of the Townsend Plan.

Sitting at the committee table when the investigation began was Dr. Francis Townsend, founder of the Townsend Plan.

Senator Downey, Democrat of California, made it clear at the outset that his attitude was not of a judicial nature, and many spectators thought he demonstrated this by reading into the record a prepared speech assailing the operation of the present Social Security Act.

Lying dormant in the House is a bill (H. R. 1045) which if enacted would provide a minimum federal old-age pension of $30 a month for every citizen over 60. An attempt is being made to bring it to the floor by means of a discharge petition. Signatures of 217 members of the House—a majority—would be required. Already 170 members have signed.

—WSS—

A tribute was paid to American industry when the government's leading tank expert, Lieutenant-Colonel John K. Christmas, stated that tank production in the United States has reached in little more than a year a point which Germany, with its much-vaunted regimented economy, attained in more than five years. He said the American tanks are superior to any being produced by Germany.

—WSS—

Those who know the philosophies of the factions within the defense set-up in Washington see little prospect of any immediate adoption of a unified program. They say that the battle for the American way of life is being fought behind the scenes in Washington right now.

The business and industrial leaders who, at the request of the government, have given up their private jobs to become dollar-a-year men for the defense emergency, believe in individual initiative. They have seen private enterprise produce the highest standard of living in the world and they believe private enterprise, adapted to the emergency, can out-produce any other system when it comes to armaments too.

The business baiters of the crack-down school, of whom there are many in important defense agency positions, see this as a golden opportunity to make America over. Dominating the blue print they want is an all-powerful centralized control in Washington of all business and industry, established now and to continue in the future.

These differences are deep-seated, and the issues involved are vitally important to the America which we are arming to defend.

—WSS—

After several months of expanding employment resulting from defense, Washington foresees the spectre of unemployment rising again in many production centers. The cause of the unemployment will be defense—defense priorities that will cut off or reduce the flow of raw materials to many non-defense companies.

One-fifth of the employees of the aluminum cooking utensil industry have already been laid off or have quit their jobs because of the aluminum priority ruling. Workers in silk mills may be similarly affected, and hundreds of plants normally making automobile parts will find a greatly reduced demand for their products as a result of the reduction in automobile output. Many industries and every part of the country will be affected.

Some who are watching the rapidly spreading effect of priorities feel that a coordinated defense setup in Washington might prevent much of the hardship which consumer industries will suffer. Planning further ahead, so that production of materials which may be short could be speeded up or substitutes found, would help. There is also a feeling in some quarters that priorities are being clamped down unnecessarily, merely on the theory, in some instances, that there may be a shortage in the future.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. EMILIE TAMPKE

In his wise providence it has pleased the Lord over life and death to summon from this time to eternal rest the soul of Emilie Tampke nee Aden. A daughter of Emil and Margareta Aden the deceased was born at Quihi, Texas, the 23rd of May 1859. Soon after her birth she was received into God's covenant of grace and was made a participant in the blessings of Christ's redemption in holy baptism. In early youth she made public confession of her Lord in the order of confirmation. She later united with the Methodist church.

Upon reaching the age of womanhood she was united in holy wedlock with Mr. Willie Tampke. Their home was blessed with ten children one of whom died in infancy, two grown sons being taken later. On April 30, 1920, death entered the home to take her companion in marriage.

The departed had been a resident of Utopia, Texas, since her marriage in 1879, until July 1939, when she moved with her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Weber, to Hondo.

She had been in ill health several months before her passing and had been blind several years. The past two years were made more cheerful by having her girlhood friends visit her. She was ever patient and was loved by all who knew her.

She is survived by five sons, L. S., Willie, George and Frank of Utopia, Otto of Leakey and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Hines of Davilla, Texas, and Mrs. Reinhart Weber of Lytle; also surviving are 23 grand-children and 17 great grand-children.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Lynn McAdam, pastor of the Methodist church of Utopia, at the Waresville cemetery at 4 o'clock Tuesday, August 5th. The body was taken overland to Utopia by the Hoger funeral home.

Pall-bearers were W. A. Tampke, Roy Dean Tampke, Jack Tampke, Albie Tampke, Edgar Tampke and Sam Clark.

The large crowd present, the many out-of-town friends who attended, and the many beautiful flowers were proof of the high esteem in which she was held.

Among those who attended the funeral of Mrs. Emilie Tampke in Utopia last week were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Saathoff, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Boehle, Mr. and Mrs. George Boehle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Boehle, Mr. and Mrs. John Faglie, Mr. and Mrs. John Saathoff, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schulte, Mrs. Horace Crow, Mrs. Edgar Stiegler, Mrs. Louis Grell, George and John Henry Saathoff and Aaron Boehle.—Contributed

NEW GAS LINE BEING CON- STRUCTED

United Gas Pipe Line Company
announced Tuesday that construction of a 200-mile natural gas pipe line has been started to supply the increasing fuel requirements of industries and cities in Louisiana and along the Gulf Coast of Mississippi
and Alabama to Pensacola, Florida.
The new line will run from the gas fields of southern Louisiana across Lake Pontchartrain to Mandeville, La., eastward to Gulfport, Miss., and thence to Mobile, Alabama. At Mandeville another line is being laid to Covington, Louisiana. It has been estimated that 56 per cent of the line's capacity of approximately 80 million cubic feet daily will be used by industries engaged in filling national defense contracts.

The crossing of Lake Pontchar-train will be the longest underwater natural gas pipe line in the world.
A single line, 14 inches in diameter,
will traverse the 25 miles of water from the southwestern bank to Mandeville on the northern shore.
Construction on this section of the line will start the latter part of August.

The new line will tie-in to existing lines at several points and at Mobile will connect with the Pensacola lateral line constructed several years ago, but built large enough to handle sufficient gas for all the requirements of the growing Pensacola industries and the U. S. Naval Training station near that city.

United Gas Pipe Line Company's main transmission lines will, upon completion of the new project, encircle a large portion of the Gulf South. This part of the United system extends from the fields in lower Louisiana northward to Shreveport,
Louisiana, and across to Monroe,
Louisiana, and Jackson, Mississippi,
southward to Mobile and Pensacola.
The new line completes the loop by linking Mobile and intervening points with the Terrebonne parish gas wells, running from west to east.
The lines are supplied from numerous gas fields which are tapped all around the big circle.

KEEPING THE FAMILY PEACE

Home air conditioning on a nationwide scale would so greatly improve the dispositions of American wives and husbands that the number of divorces would be greatly reduced,
according to students of the subject.

An armistice in the war of nerves
can be brought about by a low-cost air conditioning unit that maintains a steady, healthful temperature throughout the house with the right degree of humidity every season of the year, regardless of the antics of outside weather conditions, and even though the thermometer zooms from one extreme to another in a short space of time. Such a unit is now available, it was said.

When excessive summer heat or an undue amount of winter's chills creeps into the house, it affects the conduct of the occupants, it was pointed out. Lethargy, indifference, quick tempers, sharp tongues and other factors in an unhappy home
can be helped by scientific air conditioning.

Substitution of perfect weather conditions in the home for current unbalanced conditions, it is believed,
would materially cut down the causes
of many domestic irritations.
United Gas corporation is now representing a new gas-operated year-round air conditioning unit that performs all the functions of heating and dehumidification with selective ventilation of filtered, clean air.

INFORMATION FOR SELECTEES

Every registrant is entitled to appeal from any classification by his local board and no one has the right to deny him that privilege. General
J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, declared today.

In all cases local boards and government appeal agents must make every effort to insure protection of the registrant's right of appeal regardless of whether or not they think the appeal is justified, he said.
Any registrant who is dissatisfied with a determination of his local board may appeal the decision to the board of appeals and no one has legal power to interfere with his efforts to get a review of his case, the Director said.

Citing Selective Service Regulations relating to appeals, General
Page pointed out that a registrant or any person who claims to be a dependant of a registrant, or any person who has filed written evidence of the occupational necessity of the registrant, may appeal from any local board classification, or from any local board finding as to physical and mental qualification after physical examination made while appeal is pending.

The Regulations also provide, he said, that appeals may be taken by a government appeal agent for his local board area, a State Director of Selective Service for any local board area in his State, and the National Director of Selective Service.

Pointing out that the registrant or his dependents must appeal within ten days after mailing of the registrant's notice of classification (unless the time is extended), General Page outlined the provision of the Regulations on how an appeal is taken, as follows:

"Any person entitled to do so may appeal in either of the following ways:

"(1) By filing with the local board a written notice of appeal.
Such notice need not be in any particular form, but must state the name of the registrant and the name and identity of the person appealing so as to show the right of appeal.
"(2) By signing the 'Appeal to Board of Appeal' on the Questionnaire (Form 40)."

The person appealing may attach to his notice of appeal, or to his questionnaire, a statement specifically stating the reasons in which he believes the local board erred; may direct attention to any information in the registrant's file which he believes the local board has failed to consider or give sufficient weight; and may set out in full any evidence which was offered to the local board and which the local board failed or refused to include in the registrant's file, General Page emphasized.

Neither registrants nor representatives of the Selective Service System are permitted to appear before boards of appeal, however, General Page added. In reviewing the appeal

no evidence shall be considered which is not contained in the record received from the local board, and the decision of the board of appeal shall be based solely thereon.

Mr. J. R. Chancey of the Medina County Draft Board office requested that we announce the office hours of the local board as follows: From 8:30 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. every day except Saturday. The office will be closed on Saturday afternoons.

NEW CORN BEGINS TO MOVE

The first car of new 1941 corn
moved out Wednesday of this week,
being sent to Houston. This shipment was five days later than the first shipment of 1940 which went out on the 15th.

On the average, Medina County is thought to have the best corn crop
in its history and if satisfactory prices prevail, shipping will be active until the surplus is all sent to market.

BROOM CORN MOVING FAST

For the week ending Wednesday night of this week 13 cars of broom-corn were shipped from Hondo. The straw is being widely distributed,
cars going to Oklahoma, Tennessee,
Alabama, Virginia and Maryland.

The quality of straw is good as both growing and harvesting seasons were favorable this year, and so far the price being paid is considered fair.

MISS LORENE MARTIN HONOR- ED WITH SHOWER

Miss Lorene Martin, bride-elect of George E. Love Jr., was complimented with a beautifully appointed miscellaneous shower Friday afternoon
between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock in the home of Mrs. E. W. Billings Jr., 209 West Tenth Street. Hostesses included Mesdames Charles Lucke,
W. E. Tinnin, E. W. Billings Jr., W.
E. Blackmon, F. S. Dobkins and Miss Ellen Steinkle.

Guests were received by Mrs. Billings. Mrs. George E. Love Sr., mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. John Rosenow, mother of the bride-elect, Miss Martin, the honoree, and Mrs. Dob-kins. Mrs. Billings wore a pink sheer with a shoulder bouquet of king asters; Mrs. Rosenow wore navy, with rainbow asters. The honoree wore black alpaca and her shoulder bou-quet was of white gardenias while Mrs. Dobkins was attired in a pink sheer with rainbow asters.

A pink and white color scheme prevailed throughout the party with crepe myrtle, corona regia and pink and white rosebuds as the floral complement.

Presiding at the white satin, hand-decorated bride's book were Miss Lucille Love and Mrs. J. W. Kirchner.
Mrs. Blackmon received the guests in the gift room. She wore rose and her flowers were orchid asters.

The tea table was laid in a lovely lace cloth and was centered with a crystal bowl of pink rosebuds flanked with white tapers in crystal holders. During the first hour, Mrs.

ternoon.—Contributed.

STUDENTS TO PAY AT FOOT- BALL GAMES THIS FALL

School authorities have announced that Hondo High students will have to pay to see the football games played on Barry Field this year.
This means the abandonment of a policy of several years standing of admitting free to the ball games all of the local students. This step has been made necessary because all of the games played this fall, both at home and abroad, will be played on a percentage basis. Each visiting team will receive one-half of the net
gate receipt of that particular game,
and consequently the Hondo school authorities no longer have the right to admit free local students.

Hondo has been the only school
in the district which has admitted free to all regularly scheduled athletic contests all home students and teachers. Mr. Barry has always felt,
and still does, that athletic contests are a part of the school program, and that as such should be available to all students. But admitting the home students free, and having to pay the visiting team for one-half of each ticket admitted free would bankrupt
the football fund.

There will be four home games
this season, causing each student who attends to spend a total of one dollar. Members of the pep squad will be admitted for fifteen cents.
This is in accordance with a district ruling, and is uniform all over the district.

late J. B. Ney, during his illness and ferings at his grave.

She wore a frock of wine taffeta and a spray of white asters in her hair.

In the dining room the tea table was laid with a dainty cloth of crocheted lace and had a centerpiece of yellow zinnias in a crystal bowl set on a reflector. White tapers burned in crystal holders. Mrs. James Finger, attired in black moire taffeta, served the cake, while Miss Rock, wearing blue chiffon, poured the tea. They were assisted by Mrs. Herman Fohn, who wore white chiffon. Refreshments consisted of cake iced in yellow, tea, and mint hearts.

JOHN B. NEY PASSES

In the presence of his surviving children, John Baptist Ney, 83 years old, died at his home here at 12:30 A. M. Thursday, August 14, 1941, after several months of failing health due to his advanced age. He was the last of his generation bearing the name of Ney, descendant of a brother of Napoleon's famous field marshal, Michael Ney, and grandson of one of the original settlers of D'Hanis.

Born at Old D'Hanis on January 6, 1858, the son of Joseph Ney and Theresa Sauter Ney, he was an authority on the early history of his town and county. As a young man he married Miss Elizabeth Mueller, and in 1882 he built the home in which he resided until his death. He was preceded in death by his wife and three sons, Joseph, Richard, and Jim Ney.

Survivors are four daughters: Mrs. F. J. Rothe and Mrs. Joe Rieber of D'Hanis; Mrs. Frank Jackson of Lytle, and Mrs. Charles Schuehle of Hondo; three sons: Nic Ney of Eagle Lake, Raymond Ney of D'Hanis, and Maurice Ney of Temple; 25 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services at the home were held at 9:00 o'clock Friday morning, August 15, followed by High Mass in Holy Cross Catholic Church with Reverend Eugene Zuber officiating. Interment was made in the D'Hanis cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends.

Active pall-bearers were Marshal Ney, Chester Jackson, Martin Ney, Otis Schuehle, Calvin Bendele, and John Zinsmeyer. Honorary pall-bearers were selected from the membership of the Hermann Sons, as follows: Jos. Koch, Henry Weynand, William Finger, Ernst Brotze, Alfred Zinsmeyer, and O. W. Tondre.

With the death of John B. Ney, D'Hanis lost one of her best-known and honored citizens, whose life included many years of public service to his town, including the positions of County Commissioner for 32 years, justice of the peace, and member of the school board. He was a charter member of the Seco Lodge No. 82 of the Order of Hermann Sons.

THREE NATIVES OF D'HANIS PASS AWAY

This community was saddened Tuesday upon learning of the death of three of its native sons within a few hours past midnight on August 19th.

These were Valentine Nester, 92, and Henry Finger, 60, of D'Hanis, and Joseph Fohn, 74, of Galveston. All three men were members of prominent Medina County families.

An obituary of Mr. Finger appears in this column of the Anvil Herald. That of Mr. Nester, who will be buried tomorrow (Thursday), will be in next week's paper. Mr. Fohn, who has several survivors in D'Hanis, was prominent in the early days of the community, serving as postmaster in 1893 before he left his native town.

HENRY FINGER PASSES AT HONDO

Henry Finger, 60, passed away in Medina Hospital at Hondo on Tuesday, August 19, 1941, at about 1 A. M. Death was caused by a severe stomach illness following chronic trouble of several years' duration. Funeral services were held in the Horger Funeral Home at Hondo on Wednesday morning, August 20, at 9 o'clock, followed by Requiem High Mass in St. John's Catholic Church with Rev. C. Garcia officiating. Burial took place in Holy Cross cemetery at D'Hanis. A life-long member of the Catholic Church, Mr. Finger was fortified with the last Sacraments before his death. Rosary was recited in the funeral home on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Henry Finger was born at D'Hanis on April 19, 1881, a member of one of the town's leading pioneer families. His parents were Joseph Finger and Mary Enderle Finger. In May, 1906, he was married to Miss Frieda Rothe, who died in September, 1924, soon after the birth of their fifth child. Mr. Finger engaged in ranching, continuing his work as a stockman until the day of his last illness. He was a devoted father and his friends were very numerous.

J. William, Ed, and Frank Finger of D'Hanis, John and Charles Finger of Hondo; and six grandchildren.

LUTHER LEAGUE HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Castroville Luther League held its regular meeting August 15, 1941, in the Fuos building. The meeting was opened with song and prayer led by Rev. Falkenberg.

Gladys Halty, who was elected delegate for our League to attend the Chautauqua July 17, at Seguin, gave a very interesting report.

Our delegate, Melrose Haby, who attended the Bible Camp at Kerrville, also gave her report.

After the close of the meeting, Eloise and Darlene Bippert served ice cream and cookies to all present.

The next Luther League meeting will be held September 12. All members are urged to attend.
